The Bosch i Gimpera Foundation (FBG) focuses on promoting and managing the transfer of the knowledge and technology generated at the University of Barcelona. Its goal is to bring the scientific and technical skills and the results of the research generated at the UB to the market by means of contracts for R+D+i, consultancy services, the protection and licensing of Intellectual Property (IP), the support of product development and the creation of new knowledge-based enterprises.

The mission of the Contract Research Area of the Bosch i Gimpera Foundation unit is to promote collaboration between research groups at the UB and companies and institutions, and to seek the most appropriate means of financing for projects between the university and business considered. It aims to promote collaborative research projects between the university and businesses and institutions, and to provide consultancy and analysis services in order to improve the competitiveness of the public and private sectors.
THE CONTRACT RESEARCH AREA:

We organize sectorial technical seminars: companies - UB research groups.

We offer technical solutions to technological innovation needs of businesses and public institutions by means of UB-business services and projects in Spain and internationally.

We promote knowledge transfer from the university to society in the fields of science, technology, humanities and social sciences.

We arrange agreements and contracts between UB research groups, centres and institutes and business.

We advise on grant applications for university-industry collaborative R+D+i projects with government funding.

We provide support for establishing public-private consortiums and for growth and consolidation initiatives by the UB research groups that are part of ACCIO’s TECNIO brand.
